PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

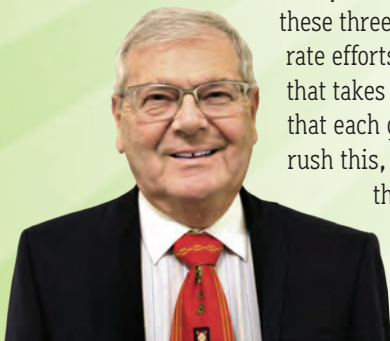

Well, Summer is here. It is hot outside BUT we can all enjoy the cool interiors of our Community Centers. It is great to see so many residents playing cards and attending meetings in our buildings. The last 16 months have taught me how much I need to appreciate the company of my friends and family, the amenities of our community and the freedom to move around my city, state, country and world. We all will "return to normal" at our own speed and in our own way. I will not take for granted the freedoms that I have to enjoy life on my own terms. I will treasure even more the time that I get to spend with family and friends.

With the reopening of our community we can now go back to the business of not only using our amenities but discussing how to improve, expand or add these amenities in our community. Sixteen months ago I wanted to form a forward planning committee that would consist of interested residents. I know that Mitzi, our Executive Director has started conversation with the Department Directors about what the future might hold for their departments. The Board of Directors have talked about returning to conversations about the future of our community now that it appears that our attention can be focused on matters other than the pandemic. I would also like a committee of residents to begin thinking about the future of our community. What will be the needs in the future regarding space for club meetings, space for activities inside our community centers, space for outdoor activities are just a few of the numerous challenges that we will face in the next few years. Our community is more active than ever before and more residents are participating than ever before.

To be sure we must first gather data including but not limited to utilization studies. How many residents are participating in what activities is an essential starting point. What new or other activities might our residents want? How much will it cost? Do we have enough space? Do we need to alter some of the uses at the location that is now being used? These are threshold questions which each group will need to ask and get answers to before the next step can be taken. I would hope that with the next year, each of these three groups will have been able to progress enough in their separate efforts that they could come together and develop an action plan that takes into consideration the issues, concerns and suggestions that each group will have developed. While I do not want to see us rush this, definitely I do not want us to take too long for this to get to the "Let's get it done stage."

We will try to form a resident's committee out of interested residents who apply by notifying me at dickclarkboardmember@gmail.com or Mitzi Mills at MitziM@suncitylv.com. Please include a one paragraph explanation as to why you would like to be on the committee and any relevant qualifications. Be Well, Be Safe, and Hydrate.

By Molly Sher/Link

For most Americans, celebrating Independence Day or July 4, is an expression of pride and joy for the United States of America. This is reflected in quotes, by some of history's greatest men:

"And so, my fellow Americans: ask not what your country can do for you - ask what you can do for your country. My fellow citizens of the world: ask not what America will do for you, but what together we can do for the freedom of man." - John F. Kennedy

"For to be free is not merely to cast off one's chains, but to live in a way that respects and enhances the freedom of others." - Nelson Mandela

"May all of you as Americans never forget your heroic origins, never fail to seek Divine guidance, and never lose your natural God-given optimism." - Ronald Reagan

Traditionally, the pomp and circumstance of this holiday have always included fireworks. How did fireworks, previously known as "illuminations," become a Fourth of July tradition? Was the birth of our nation also the birth of using fireworks for important holidays? Who was the first to use this display to mark significant occasions, and where did fireworks come from?

At first glance, it appears that we can thank John Adams, who overwhelmed with the significance of the 13 colonies, reviewed a draft of a declaration of independence composed by Thomas Jefferson. John Adams wrote to his wife Abigail, of his excitement. "The Second Day of July 1776, will be the most memorable Epocha in the History of America," Adams wrote. "I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated, by succeeding Generations, as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be solemnized with Pomp and Parade, with Shews, Games, Sports, Guns, Bells, Bonfires and Illuminations, from one End of this Continent to the other, from this Time forward forever more."

("Epocha" is an archaic word for epoch. "Shews" is an archaic word for "shows").

John Adams was off by a couple of days. On July 4, after making a total of 86 small changes to Jefferson's draft, the Continental Congress officially adopted the Declaration of Independence. Most delegates didn't actually sign it until August 2. The first organized celebration of Independence Day would take place in Philadelphia, on July 4, 1777.

Upon further investigation on the history of fireworks, one finds that somewhere between 600 AD and 900 AD, Chinese alchemists experimented with using gun powder and bamboo, filling the bamboo with the powder, and throwing them into a fire pit. Steel dust or cast-iron shavings were added to make the explosion sparkle. This form of "fireworks" was used to scare off evil spirits at New Year's festivities and at weddings.

Both the recipe for gun powder and fireworks made their way west, with the Mongols after the Silk Road opened and trade began in the 13th century.

Pyrotechnics became a common manner of celebration for pageants and plays in Europe. In England, King Henry VII included fireworks at his wedding to Elizabeth of York in 1486, which is considered the first known use of the displays at a national celebration. Queen Elizabeth I was a huge admirer of fireworks, and even appointed a "Fire Master of England" to oversee productions.

By the 18th century, the displays had grown extravagant, with the likes of King Louis XIV and Peter the Great using them for every important occasion. The use of fireworks became a popular way to celebrate national prosperity and patriotism.

John Adams was not the first in his suggestion of using fireworks, but in his letter, Adams was announcing to his wife the birth of a brand new nation, and suggested the most popular form of celebration of his time: the fireworks.

In 2016, the U.S. Census Bureau reported that $296.2 million worth of fireworks were imported from China to the United States; fireworks are still connected to their origins, it seems.

There is a lot to be said about the joy that a spectacular firework display evokes in people. On a lighter note, that joy might be expressed in a rather popular song:

*'Cause baby you're a firework,
Come on, show 'em what you're worth
Make 'em go "Oh, oh, oh," As you shoot across the sky
Baby, you're a firework, Come on, let your colors burst
Make 'em go "Oh, oh, oh"
You're gonna leave 'em all in awe, awe, awe
- "Firework" by Katy Perry*

Happy Fourth of July, everyone!

Is Your Home Safe? Important Safety Tips From Las Vegas Fire and Rescue

one, do not hesitate to call 911 for help. Most of us are unable to grab hold and lift someone else back up safely, but Rescue can do that. With the sophisticated communication system available to them, the dispatchers will find you the closest rescue unit quickly and when they arrive, it will be determined if you need to be further evaluated. Every Rescue vehicle has a certified emergency medical technician and other paramedics on board. They actually bring the hospital emergency room to your doorstep. You can thank a television show in the 1970's for this

It is exciting to share information from Timothy Szymanski, one of the most dedicated first responders in our community. Tim has worked with Las Vegas Fire and Rescue for fifty-one years and now serves as the Public Education and Information Officer. He and his fellow officers are ALWAYS sitting in stations 24/7, waiting for calls to help valley citizens. It is difficult to decide what to mention as the most important points, everything we discussed seemed very significant.

Bill Schoening,
Chief of Security

Falls. Of great consequence to residents of Sun City is the subject of falls. We seem to be talented in the art of going from standing to melting in a heap on the floor or sidewalk. If this happens to you or a loved huge change in responses as "Emergency" came on the small screen and communities decided to follow the example portrayed in our living rooms. As 95% of the calls to Fire and Rescue are medical, do not ever feel embarrassed about dialing 911.

If it is just a matter of setting a person back up on their feet and nothing else appears amiss, the rescue team heads back to the station to wait for the next call. There will be no charge to the individual who called for help. If, however, the team determines there may be an underlying cause, these units can stabilize a patient and transport to the hospital. There is a charge for this service and they do accept Medicare.

What if you fall at home and you are alone?! Tim says your best friend can be your cell phone. Carry that phone with you AT ALL TIMES. 20,000 (that is twenty thousand) folks lose their lives in this country every year because they were not able to contact anyone after a fall. He also mentioned there is now a watch available that automatically alerts five pre-programmed telephone numbers if the wearer takes a tumble.

One other strong suggestion from him is to wear a bike helmet (or similar) if you spend time walking our neighborhoods. A very small brain bleed can be fatal if you fall and hit your unprotected skull. Also if you are experiencing chest pains, the Rescue units could save your life! Again, please call for help right away and give the responders the best present they get, plenty of time to help you.

As we begin the subject of fire, we need to look at some of the main causes; cooking, electrical and smoking.

Smoking. Addressing smoking we need to realize that as cigarettes went out of style for many reasons, smoking calls went down. Now there is marijuana. Very important for those indulging to remember that the ONLY place it is legal to smoke that substance is inside your home, not on the patio, not in the garage. Tim strongly recommends a metal container with water in it, to catch your ashes and butts. Garage makes the list as a possible location of flammable materials, not the least being the gasoline in any parked vehicles. Smoking is the leading cause of fatal fires.

Cooking. Next up is cooking. Around the holidays, particularly Thanksgiving, Fire and Rescue goes out on an abundance of calls when homes fill up with carbon monoxide or emissions from all of the cooking areas. Please consider this important suggestion open windows every hour to dissipate all the built-up possible discharge of gasses before they turn into an emergency. Then enjoy the holiday feast! Never cook in the garage, see smoking for reason.

Electrical. Not all surge protector electrical plugins are made equal. This is a great area to consider purchasing the best available. Although Sun City homes are well built, the electrical systems never were planned for all of the electronics so many of us use today. Look around your home or get a professional electrician to help you use your outlets correctly.

Part II of this discussion will appear in the coming months to include smoke detectors. "So much information, not enough space."

TAD MANAGEMENT PRESENTS
"GARTH LIVE"

Saturday, July 24, 6 p.m. • $20 • Doors open at 5:30 p.m.

Dean Simmons followed the footsteps of his father, uncle, and grandfather to a life of performing country music. At seven years old, he was strumming his guitar with his father's band. Later, he founded his own country band. They performed nightclubs, fairs, and festivals all over the Pacific Northwest. They also had the honor of performing for our heroic military servicemen and women at bases all over the Far East, the Caribbean, the South Pacific as well as the US. By 1992, Garth Brooks was dominating the charts, and Dean found himself loving and learning Garth's music. After extensive study of Garth's music, concert footage and music videos, not only could he mimic Garth's music, but he was also able to emulate his mannerisms; the walk, the talk, the laugh, and most importantly, the ability to engage and connect with an audience. The Garth Guy began his career as a Garth Brooks tribute artist in 1994. In '96, producer John Stuart discovered and hired him to perform in the world famous "Legends in Concert" in Las Vegas, Myrtle Beach, Atlantic City, and has also been crowned one of the "World's Greatest Tribute Bands" with his own nationally televised one-hour special on Mark Cuban's AXS TV. The Garth Guy now celebrates 20 years of giving audiences across the country a live Garth Brooks experience that is performed with respect and amazing accuracy. His shows are a real sincere tribute Garth Brooks . . . and his music.

REMEMBER WHY WE CELEBRATE

By Patti Tripp / Link

*"I pledge allegiance . . ." – seems like such simple words, and yet every time when the phrase can be heard,
we simple gloss over the weight of the phrase and forget what it means, especially these days.*

*The words "When in the Course of human events . . ." – we forget what our forefathers had tried to present – that Independence was won, and a price had been paid by the lives that were lost, in their graves they now lay.
Our country has issues; there's still work to be done;
we've fought many wars, and they weren't always won.*

But know on the 4th, a celebration is due to take time to give thanks for what this country gave you.

The system's not perfect, but our forefathers tried and their declaration was created to give us a guide on how to be a free but there's still work ahead, time to stop the complaining and make changes instead.

And when "the perfect union" reveals it has flaws, there's a time to reflect and perhaps just take pause to try and do better, with respect towards those who just may be different, that's just how life goes.

*While we live in a country where opportunities lie, not all are as lucky, so do we ask ourselves why?
We've been blessed with those freedoms we often forget and our differences fill us with anger, and yet – there is no better place on this earth that we've found;
and if you don't believe that – take a good look around.*

*Of course, we need work as there's much left to do, but if we want to be better, well, that might be up to you.
Our independence was won, and still try though we might,
we've come a long way since the "dawn's early light".*

So, on the 4th of July, the reason where we now are, know we've still ways to go even though we've come far from the days when these men were creating this land to make it a haven for the future of man to have freedom for all, our independence was won not for a select few, but given to everyone.

We take time to party, shoot off fireworks, and gather and ignore why we do it, as if the past didn't matter.

So, put up your flag, and as parties convene – take another hard look and remember what it all means!

HEALTH & FITNESS

Fascia and Flexibility

Flexibility is the theme for the Health & Fitness Department during the months of July, August, and September.

Flexibility refers to range of motion of your joints and the ability to move freely and without pain. We know that when you lack flexibility, it becomes more difficult to perform both simple and complex tasks. Eventually, your body will begin to compensate for this lack and will adapt, altering your movement patterns to perform these tasks safely and without pain. Externally, this can result in adaptations like poor posture or a shuffling walk. Internally, it results in tight muscles and tight, dense fascia.

What is Fascia?

Fascia – is a sheet of connective tissue covering or binding together body structures. Fascia surrounds the muscles, organs, bones, tendons, and ligaments and is arranged throughout the body like a web. This article focuses on myofascial pain and tightness. "Myo" relates to muscles and "fascial" relates to fascia.

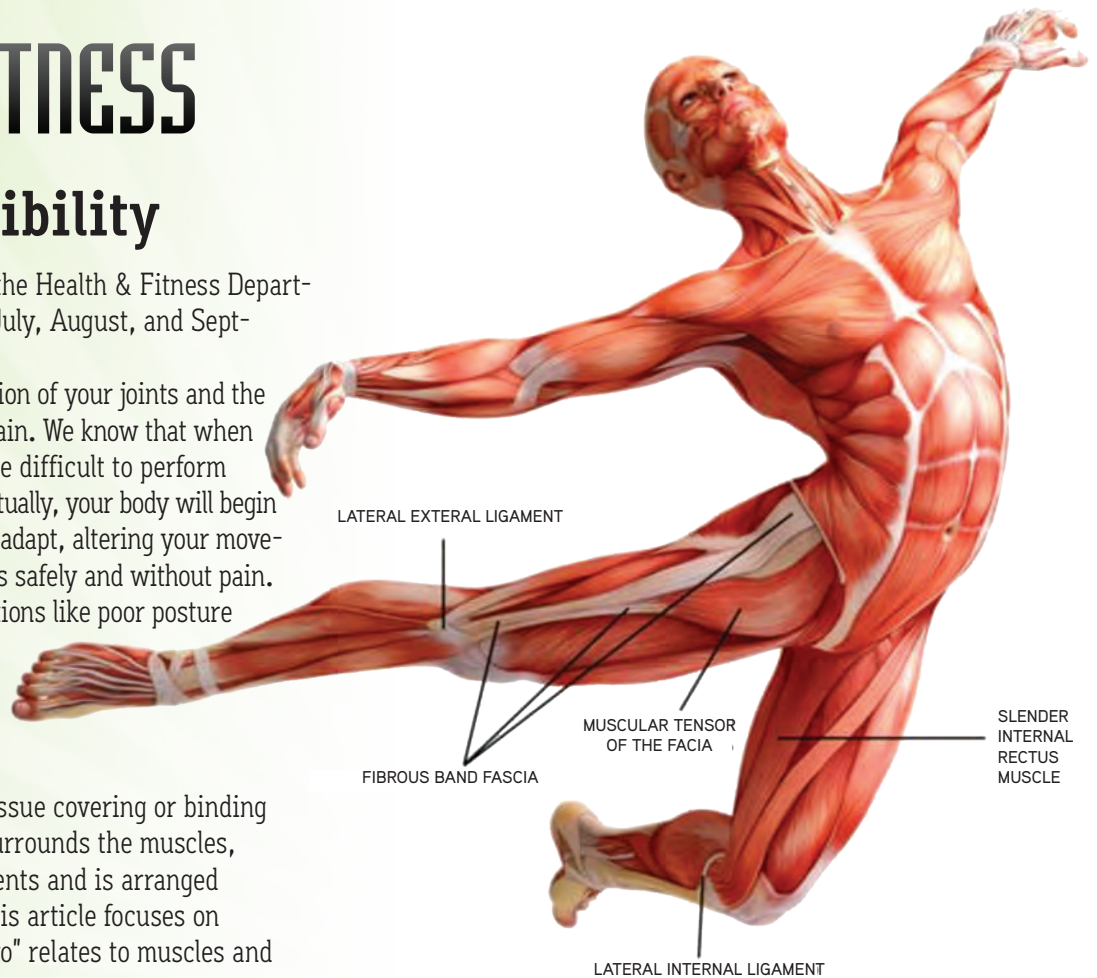

Fascia is organized in a series of "lines" that facilitate your movement patterns in everything you do, helping the body move as a unit. For instance, the Superficial Back Line runs along the back of your body from the bottom of your feet to the top of your neck. The Lateral Line frames the sides of your body and extends from the center of the foot, running up the outside of the leg and thigh, crisscrossing up the side of the torso, over the shoulder and ends near the ear.

Once you understand how fascia is organized, you can easily see how low back pain or shoulder imbalances may actually be caused by problems in the feet. If one area of the fascia is tight, it can reduce flexibility throughout the entire line. When you stop moving, either due to injury or general inactivity, the muscle fascia will start to bind together and become tight, limiting mobility and causing painful "knots". For more information on fascial lines and their purpose, Google "fascial lines" or "myofascial lines".

When experiencing painful mobility, it can be difficult to determine whether the problem is your muscles, joints, fascia, or some combination. There are currently no imaging tests, lab work, or blood work that can diagnose myofascial pain. A physical examination of your muscles is required, usually by a healthcare provider that specializes in physical medicine and rehabilitation.

Pam Shields, SCSCAI Health & Fitness Director

Non-pharmaceutical therapies include hands-on manual therapy and specific stretching techniques. Some of these are listed below.

Myofascial Release is a type of physical therapy that focuses on reducing pain by relieving the tension and tightness in the trigger points.

Foam Rolling is a form of self-myofascial release and involves massaging your own fascia tissue to relieve the stress and tension with the use of a dense foam roller.

Fascial Stretches help to relieve fascial tightness and tension. One key difference with these stretches is that once in position, you will hold these stretches for a minute or more.

Treatment plans generally involve more than one therapy and can include others like heat therapy, yoga therapy, and acupuncture.

If this article has piqued your interest or has left you with more questions, you are in luck. In August, we will hold a Foam Rolling Workshop where you can learn about foam rolling and how to do it. Also, Kika Stretch Studios will provide a seminar/demo of their unique stretching technique. We have also added an Active Stretch class to our schedule.

“As I See It . . . ” FREEDOM

By Alan G. Spector / Link

This past spring was truly a season of rebirth and renewal. Considering the difficult and restrictive year we all have endured, this spring really was enlightening and invigorating. Vaccines, fewer masks, hugs, going places. Now, the summer gives us a season of increased freedom and Freedom can be tricky. We are basically free to drive where we want, but not free to speed and harm someone, or not wear seatbelts and harm ourselves. We are free to take medicines and enjoy adult beverages, but we are not free to abuse drugs, or drink to excess and become a nuisance. We must choose our freedoms carefully, consider the value and cautions of exercising those freedoms. We struggle to be free, but what really is true freedom?

I'm thinking that true freedom is really personal freedom. Our external freedoms are subject to discussion, interpretation, and change. Personal freedom is who we are, what we stand for, and what means the most to us. Only we can control our personal freedoms, and in fact, they are the most relaxation. We can continue our trek toward "normal" again. We all missed out on a lot this year . . . seeing our family and friends most prominently, but we also had lost a lot of our freedom (though for our safety, and for the safety of those around us). We restricted our activity, travel, and personal contacts. Now, we are challenged to find our new and best path, find our comfort areas and regain more of our freedoms.

But you know, this might be easier said than done. We cannot go from "0" to "100" miles per hour in a second, our necks will get whiplash, and we might just shoot off in any direction without vision or purpose. Sure, we are free again . . . but to do what?

essential aspects of our lives. So, we can control our own personal freedoms.

The past is the past. Now that COVID-19 is on the decline, we have an opportunity to review our lives and chart our own courses going forward. If we seek guidance, let's hope we make good choices for our future lives. We can turn tribulation into opportunity. We have learned much, thanks to COVID-19. Let's all resolve to find the positives in this ordeal. We can choose new paths and find ways to be the best we can be. We can find the best and most meaningful ways to enjoy our own personal freedoms.

STU'S Hacks

We are going to try a new, regular feature called "Hacks." "Hacks" in its current usage, it means "Life Hacks" – a strategy or technique to manage one's time and daily activities in a more efficient way. We will include a few "Hacks", often accompanied by a photograph, to make your daily life easier.

Scorpion Prevention – Most of our garage floors have concrete blocks with a groove usually going down the middle. My handyman laid grout into the center groove of the concrete for about six inches where the garage door touches the floor. This seals off the center groove so that scorpions cannot enter when the garage door is closed.

Gas Cap Location – In almost every car built since 2010, there is an arrow on your gas gauge to show which side of car has the gas filler location. You probably know this for the car you drive, but if you rent a car, this could be valuable.

If you have any daily life HACKS you would like to submit, please send them to stugershon@gmail.com

All we have to do, is open our eyes and let the wonder into our hearts. Our thanks to Fred and Arlene Goodman (pictured below) for caring for this miracle of nature in their yard and sharing it with us. MEET SHARON BISHOP

I was born in downtown Los Angeles, in the California Hospital on 16th and Hope Street. So, a true native I am. I grew up living in the "Valley". No freeways, acres of orange trees, and what I thought was a long walk to school and back.

Being a Magazine Coordinator was never on my bucket list/career path. When I think of all the years I have spent in the retail, ranking and printing industries, publishing was not a job that I was prepared to do. However, through these many years learning the basics of all these businesses they all had one thing in common; good customer service—a skill that never goes out of style.

Thinking back, about my first jobs, there is a wide variety of employment. My grandmother bribed me with chocolate chip cookies to cut quilting fabric and then, with my tiny 7-year-old hands, thread a needle and sew the little pieces together. The love of stitching stayed with me as I am now a professional needle-work teacher and designer. Ironing was my first paid job. I did my father's long sleeve shirts and I got paid a nickel per button. As the word about my ironing skills got around in the neighborhood, I made enough money to take the bus up to Woolworths, buy treats, have lunch, and ride the bus back home. I worked as a babysitter, and in the school cafeteria as well as a score keeper for my father's bowling team. I got paid 25 cents per strike or cuss word. Good money that was! At 16, I got a job at Sears Roebuck standing guard over a T-stand of locked down fur coats. After high school, I worked as a cord switchboard operator for an employment agency in downtown Los Angeles where the elevator had an elevator man.

I felt so grown up! I often still miss the hustle and bustle of a downtown environment.

I learned about printing at the elbow of my father who was a print jobber. His specialty was the hotel/motel and restaurant field. I learned bookkeeping, shipping, inventory control, hand wrote liquor inventory books, and customer service in the small office supply store that he owned. Also, in the bindery in the back of the shop where the forms were printed. This was a great foundation for me. Many jobs over many years.

In 1980 while visiting my brother in Las Vegas, I was offered a job at the old MGM hotel during a visit to the gift shop. Never thought I would have an interview in a tube top and shorts. I said "yes" to the job and moved here. I then went into department store management and eventually became a Divisional Manager with Bullocks. I have owned my own Cross-Stitch and Needlepoint store here in Las Vegas. Whew, I have worked a long time. Thought I was retiring in 2006 with a part time job with Michaels. A friend recommended me to become the office manager for a printing and mail house. It was there that I first met the Link magazine. Now I am working as the Link Magazine Coordinator. The Link magazine is like a huge jigsaw puzzle where every month the pieces change, and the inside must be refitted. It is challenging and rewarding for sure. The one thing that makes it all worthwhile is the people I work with, the environment I work in, and all the Community Owners and Residents. Thank you, Sun City Community Association for giving me this opportunity to be of service.

Sharon Bishop, Link Magazine Coordinator

On Tuesday, July 13 and Wednesday, July 14, representatives from most of Sun City's clubs and social groups will be in the Desert Vista Ballroom to share information about their organizations.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m.

Members of the Spanish Club were eager to resume their weekly lessons on Friday mornings in Sun Shadows to learn Spanish and, as soon as the COVID-19 restrictions were lifted, they started meeting again on June 4th.

Depending on the proficiency of the member, the club divides its classes into three groups; beginner, intermediate conversation, and advanced. Beginner classes start with the basics of learning vocabulary and elementary grammatical rules. As one progresses, members "graduate" to the intermediate conversation class and then on to the advanced class, where members converse in Spanish, expand their vocabulary and practice using different tenses to improve fluency. As one's ability to speak and understand Spanish improves, members are encouraged to attend both the basic and the more advanced classes as they transition.

Joan Jones, who moved to Sun City in 2001, has been teaching classes in Sun Shadows for the past 19 years. Joan teaches beginner and advanced classes. Joan's beginner class uses a book called "Spanish Now", which combines language lessons with historical and cultural content. Joan believes learning Spanish is important not only when traveling to other countries, but also to understand the customs of other cultures.

Dania Alvarez, who moved to the USA from Cuba 62 years ago and has been living in Sun City for 23 years, teaches the intermediate conversation class. Dania runs her classes in a lighter, more informal, and humorous way. She does not use a book, but rather encourages the club members to converse in Spanish.

When asked why they come to the meetings, club members said, "It makes me a well-rounded person, broadens my horizons, I am learning to communicate with my child's spouse in her native language, keeps my brain working well, I'm making friends who have common interests, I can communicate better when I travel, and more."

Some club members have been attending for more than a decade, but any Sun City resident is welcome. If you know and understand Spanish, it is not necessary to start at the beginning class level. If Spanish is your native language and you just want to converse with someone in your original language you are invited to join.

When the COVID-19 pandemic closed down Sun Shadows last March, Barry Feinberg started holding classes each Wednesday at 9 a.m, on Google Meet, a program similar to Zoom. Barry's online meetings focus on conversing in Spanish with an emphasis on speaking just to be understood and it is not necessary to be perfect, just get the idea across. Barry's online classes will continue.

Club President Norm Hirata, who only had three years of Spanish in high school, joined the club five years ago by attending both beginner and intermediate meetings, and his Spanish has improved. For additional information, Norm can be contacted at (702) 503-4584. Cost: $1 per year.
